Figure 1 consists of two panels, (a) and (b), showing the effect of 100% O₂ on the rate of oxygenation of hemoglobin. Both panels plot the rate of oxygenation (dO₂/dt) on the y-axis against the percentage of O₂ on the x-axis. Panel (a) shows a control experiment with a single sigmoidal curve. Panel (b) shows an experiment with 100% O₂, where the curve is biphasic, with a fast initial rise and a slower approach to saturation.
